

Weymouth New Testament in Modern Speech: A Study of the Epistle of Jude

The Epistle of Jude is a brief but powerful letter written by Jude, the brother of James and a relative of Jesus Christ. It is addressed to "all those who have been consecrated by God the Father and preserved for Jesus Christ." (Jude 1:1).

The epistle is a warning against false teachers who have crept into the church and are leading believers astray. Jude urges his readers to contend earnestly for the faith that was once for all delivered to the saints.
